Part – A

(25 Marks)

Choose the most appropriate answer and enter the letter in the bracket.

1. Ever since I arrived at the college last week, I've been shocked by the poor behaviour of the students. The student population is completely lacking in proper social skills.

Which of the following, if true, would weaken the above conclusion? ()

- A) The college numbers over 50,000 students.
B) Students who are away from their parents often exhibit rude behavior.
C) The narrator is a student and has interacted with many students.
D) Social skills should not be expected of college students.
2. Studies of fatal automobile accidents reveal that, in the majority of cases in which one occupant of an automobile is killed while another survives, it is the passenger, not the driver, who is killed. It is ironic that the innocent passenger should suffer for the driver's carelessness, while the driver often suffers only minor injuries or none at all.

Which of the following is an assumption underlying the reasoning in the passage above? ()

- A) Drivers of automobiles are rarely killed in auto accidents.
B) In most fatal automobile accidents, the driver of a car in which an occupant is killed is at fault.
C) Most deaths in fatal automobile accidents are suffered by occupants of cars rather than by pedestrians.
D) Auto safety experts should increase their efforts to provide protection for those in the passenger seats of automobiles.
3. The crux of creativity resides in the ability to manufacture variations on a theme. If we look at the history of science, for instance, we see that every idea is built upon a thousand related ideas. Careful analysis leads us to understand that what we choose to call a new theme or a new discovery is itself always and without exception some sort of variation, on a deep level, of previous themes.

If all of the statements in the passage are true, each of the following must also be true EXCEPT: ()

- A) A lack of ability to manufacture a variation on a previous theme connotes a lack of creativity.
B) No scientific idea is entirely independent of all other ideas.
C) Some new scientific discoveries do not represent, on a deep level, a variation on previous themes.
D) Careful analysis of a specific variation can reveal previous themes of which it is a variation.

4. No national productivity measures are available for underground industries that may exist but remain unreported. On the other hand, at least some industries that are run entirely by self-employed industrialists are included in national productivity measures.

From the information given above, it can be validly concluded that ()

- A) there are at least some industries run entirely by self-employed industrialists that are underground industries.
B) no industries that are run entirely by self-employed industrialists operate underground.
C) there are at least some underground industries for which national productivity measures are available.
D) there are at least some industries other than those run entirely by self-employed industrialists that are underground industries.
5. A study of native born residents in Newland found that two-thirds of the children developed considerable levels of nearsightedness after starting school, while their illiterate parents and grandparents, who had no opportunity for formal schooling, showed no signs of this disability.

If the above statements are true, which of the following conclusions is most strongly supported by them? ()

- A) Only people who have the opportunity for formal schooling develop nearsightedness.
B) People who are illiterate do not suffer from nearsightedness.
C) Only literate people are nearsighted.
D) The nearsightedness in the children is caused by the visual stress required by reading and other class work.

(Note : Mention the language) (15 Marks)

“Christmas won’t be Christmas without any presents,” grumbled Jo, lying on the rug.

“It’s so dreadful to be poor!” sighed Meg, looking down at her old dress.

“I don’t think it’s fair for some girls to have plenty of pretty things, and other girls nothing at all,” added little Amy, with an injured sniff.

“We’ve got father and mother and each other,” said Beth, contentedly, from her corner.

The four young faces on which the firelight shone brightened at the cheerful words, but darkened again as Jo said sadly –

“We haven’t got father, and shall not have him for a long time.” She didn’t say “perhaps never,” but each silently added it, thinking of father far away, where the fighting was.

The four sisters sat knitting away in the twilight. It was a comfortable old room, though the carpet was faded and the furniture very plain; for a good picture or two hung on the walls, books filled the recesses, flowers bloomed in the windows, and a pleasant atmosphere of home-peace pervaded it.
